

Renaissance Learning to be Acquired for $1.1 Billion by Hellman & Friedman

One of the largest acquisitions in education technology demonstrates the value of learning analytics

Wisconsin Rapids, Wis. (March 13, 2014) - Renaissance Learning, a K12 assessment and learning analytics company, today announced the company has reached a definitive agreement to be acquired for $1.1 billion by private equity investment firm Hellman & Friedman from the Permira funds. Google Capital is expected to remain as an investor in Renaissance Learning.

Renaissance provides educators with the insight needed to help them unlock the learning potential of each and every student. Its learning progression – a sequencing of skills a student must master from kindergarten to high school graduation – is powered by insights from more than 45 million assessments taken each year by students at more than one third of U.S. schools. The increasingly digital classroom has accelerated Renaissance’s ability to capture vital data that helps teachers understand what a student knows and what the student is ready to learn next.

“Today there is an incredible opportunity to harness data to help teachers unlock the learning potential of their students,” said Jack Lynch, CEO of Renaissance Learning. “Partnering with Hellman & Friedman will give us additional tools and resources to continue building out our capabilities, broadening our market reach, and ultimately helping teachers transform education.”

“Renaissance Learning is an outstanding company that has been helping educators accelerate student learning for decades,” said Tarim Wasim, Managing Director at Hellman & Friedman. “We believe strongly in the mission and are excited to help grow Renaissance’s impact globally through continued investment in products that make a difference in the classroom.”

Anupam Mishra, Managing Director at Hellman & Friedman added, “Renaissance’s history of innovating to help teachers is long and unrivaled. Renaissance is at the forefront of personalized learning and will have a meaningful impact on education in the 21st century. We are proud to be a part of it.”

“We are grateful to have been a part of this dedicated and mission-driven team and proud of the accelerated growth Renaissance has achieved under our funds’ ownership,” said Nic Volpi and Brian Ruder, Partners at Permira. “By investing significantly in the Company’s core products and new product development, cultivating a first-class management team, and forging important strategic relationships, Renaissance has made great strides in strengthening its position and increasing its impact on K-12 students. We wish Jack and Hellman & Friedman great success as they continue to grow expand this fantastic business.”

Renaissance will remain headquartered in Wisconsin Rapids, Wisconsin. The transaction is expected to close in the second quarter of 2014, subject to the waiting period under the HSR Act and customary closing conditions. BofA Merrill Lynch, Credit Suisse, and RBC Capital Markets acted as financial advisors to Hellman & Friedman. Simpson Thacher & Bartlett LLP acted as legal advisor to Hellman & Friedman. Skadden, Arps, Slate, Meagher & Flom LLP acted as legal advisor to the Permira Funds.
